

St. Louis needs more housing that is affordable and lead-free! Citizens need to know which agencies can help them with housing issues, either through grants, vouchers or other forms of assistance.

Problems in St. Louis are getting worse as low income housing is being turned over to private developers. Speculators buy up property, forcing renters out. Homes are being torn down to make room for medium and high income families, while those who most need public housing can't afford the $19,000 income test.

We need not just homes, but communities where people can live safely with their neighbors. Join us in a discussion to develop recommendations for housing policy reform.

- James M. Heard, Director, Housing and Urban Development
- Cheryl Lovell, Executive Director, St. Louis Housing Authority
- Sean Thomas, Old North St. Louis Restoration Group
- Greg Tumlin, Citizens Coalition to Fight Eminent Domain Abuse
- Bertha Gilkey, Housing Consultant
- Lionel Nixon, Universal African Peoples Org, Green Party [moderator]

The Housing Crisis in St. Louis

7 pm, Wednesday
December 3, 2008

Legacy Books and Café
5249 Delmar (near Union)
St. Louis, MO 63108

For more info call 314-727-8554 or visit www.gateway-greens.org